Research Template Explained

This file compiles everything the professor instructed during class regarding the research template file.

Title Page Information

- Project Title: A Research Project on the Social Media Habits Among Troy Program Students
- Prepared by: [Your Name]
- A student from: [Your Class, e.g., Troy IT 01 - K69]
- Prepared for: e.g ENG-1102 IHAD
- Date: [Insert updated date]

Table of Contents

- Insert the sections and page numbers accordingly.

Abstract

- Format this section as exactly one paragraph.
- Do not strictly rely on template suggestions; custom phrasing is encouraged, provided it follows this 5-part structure:
- Purpose: "This research was to [state purpose]."
- Methodology: "The investigation was done by [state method]" (Focus on the method, not the researcher).
- Main Findings: "The main findings were that [summarize findings]."
- Conclusion: "It was concluded that [state conclusion]."
- Recommendation: "[Provide recommendations]."

Introduction

- Keep this section short to save your word count for the Findings section.
- Purpose: State the objective concisely (e.g., "The purpose of this report is to describe the social media usage habits among Troy Program students at Hanoi University of Science and Technology").

- Scope: Define the limits of your research. Specify that it exclusively examines Troy Program students at HUST and does not cover other majors due to time constraints. You do not need to limit it to your specific class; any Troy student is acceptable. Aim for around 20 respondents.
- Methodology: State that information was gathered from two sources: website literature (readings) and questionnaires (used to collect primary data).
- Research Questions: Include a maximum of 3 questions. They should be arguable and properly balanced (not too simple, but not overly complex). To make this easier, convert the 3 main prompts from your task requirements directly into your research questions. Absolutely avoid copying the 10 survey questions into this section.

Literature Review

- Length: Keep this to approximately 100 words, formatted as a single paragraph.
- Citations: In-text citations are strictly mandatory.
- Content: Specify the author, the study, the specific aspects they explored, and their results. The best approach is to compare and contrast related studies (e.g., "In Study A, the author focuses on [Topic], whereas Study B highlights [Topic]").
- Purpose: Identify what previous research has accomplished to show how your report will fill the existing knowledge gap.
- Minimum Requirement: You must discuss at least 3 different studies.

Findings

1. Data Collection Process

- Write this in your own words.
- Introduce the questionnaire as your data collection method and briefly justify its use (e.g., it is a convenient and time-saving instrument).
- Briefly describe the questionnaire's structure (e.g., "The questionnaire consists of 10 questions: 7 closed-ended, 1 open-ended, 1 contingency, and 1 combination question").
- Describe the administrative process realistically. State the distribution method, the time it took participants to complete (e.g., 5-10 minutes), and the response rate over a realistic timeframe (e.g., "The Google Form was sent to 35 students, and 15 responses were received after two days").

2. Data Analysis

- Methods: Skip observations and interviews due to time constraints. The questionnaire is mandatory.
- Organization: You can analyze the data question-by-question, or group the questions thematically around the given prompts. Dividing the analysis into 3 main parts is recommended (e.g., "Questions 1 through 5 address the first prompt regarding general social media habits").
- Charts: You must include charts generated from your Google Forms.
- Chart Formatting Order: First, place the chart. Second, provide the figure name and number (e.g., Figure 1: The percentage of students who use social media). Third, write your analysis of the chart.
- Language Rules: State the exact number of responses. The entire survey and analysis must be in English; if any respondents answered in Vietnamese, those answers must be translated.
- Note: A standalone "Discussion" section is not required.

Conclusion and Recommendation

- Conclusion: Summarize the main findings of your research.
- Recommendation: State your recommendations based directly on the conclusions (e.g., "From these conclusions, it is therefore recommended that..."). These can be written in full sentences or presented as bullet points.

Total Word Count

- Limit: Exactly 1,000 words.
- Counting Rules: The word count only applies to the text from the Abstract through the Conclusion and Recommendation. Title pages, tables of contents, appendixes, and bibliographies are excluded from this limit.

Appendixes

- Appendix 1 (Mandatory): This must contain the complete questionnaire. Copy and paste the full text and answer options into the document. Do not just paste a hyperlink. The teacher requires the full text in the hard copy to grade and soft copy to check for AI usage. Try to format it to fit on 1 or 2 pages. It must be entirely in English.
- Appendix 2 (Optional): Use this for interview questions. If you did not conduct interviews, delete this section entirely.

- Formatting Note: If you only have one appendix, simply label it "Appendix" without a number.

Bibliography (or References)

- Consistency Check: Avoid the common mistake of listing an author here without citing them in the text. Ensure that every source in your Literature Review appears in the Bibliography, and every entry in the Bibliography is cited in the text.
